1. Message from the Associate Dean

On behalf of all faculty members and staff it is my great pleasure to welcome all new and returning Research Postgraduate Students in the Faculty of Arts. As Associate Dean for Research, it is my role to oversee all matters concerning PhD and MPhil students. I hope that you will enjoy your stay as a postgraduate student and benefit from both the teaching and social life in your Department, School, Faculty, as well as the University in general.

Our Faculty is one of the major hubs for teaching and research in all areas of Arts and Humanities. I am sure that during your time at HKU you will take full advantage of the expertise, academic events and ideas that you can find in the Faculty. We hope that this will be as exciting a time for you as your arrival is for us.

This handbook describes our research postgraduate programmes, and is designed as a guide to your studies within the Faculty and as an introduction to administrative and academic procedures. You may be given additional information by the Chair of your Departmental Research Postgraduate Committee and your Supervisor. Note that during your period of registration there may be some changes in procedures or otherwise which will supersede what is in this handbook. You will be informed of these changes should they occur and the handbook will be updated. Please do let us know if you have any questions or suggestions for inclusion of additional information in the handbook.

I look forward to working with you and I wish you every success in your academic studies.

Professor Adam Jaworski
Associate Dean (Research)
Faculty of Arts

2. Research in the Faculty

The Faculty of Arts is one of the flagship faculties of the University of Hong Kong and one of the finest humanities faculties in the region and internationally. It was founded in 1912, when the University opened, and it has been a focus of academic life on campus ever since, building on its tradition to meet successive educational and intellectual challenges.

The Faculty attracts and nurtures outstanding scholars and students from around the world through excellence and innovation in teaching, research and knowledge exchange. It provides a comprehensive, humanities and liberal arts research environment, and its strengths include world-class expertise in China-West studies, highly diverse and international academic staff, and a strong culture- and language-based curriculum.

Teachers in the Faculty are committed to excellence in research, which feeds into the broad, liberal education they provide to students and the community. Arts graduates emerge with analytic, linguistic, critical and creative skills, and a deep engagement with culture and global awareness, all of which create the foundation for effective leadership and success in a wide range of professional and life endeavours. Over the past century, the Faculty’s graduates have made significant contributions in government, the arts, business and other fields in Hong Kong, the region and internationally.

The Faculty strives to extend the significance of its research and teaching into the wider community. It aims to provide lifelong learning opportunities and to reinforce the artistic, social and educational values of the arts and humanities. In turn, it has received significant support for its work from public and private sources.

HKU ranked 31st in the world in Arts and Humanities in the Times Higher Education (THE) World University Subject Rankings 2020, one of the only four Asian Universities to have made it into the top 40 in this year’s exercise which ranked 500 universities worldwide. The University’s overall ranking in the Arts & Humanities is 16th in the latest QS World University Subject Rankings in 2019. The Faculty made the global top 30 in two subjects: Linguistics (11th) and Modern Languages (23rd). The Faculty of Arts’ presence amongst the best institutions in the world is evidence of its exceptional record in teaching and research.

4. Programme of Studies

A. Introduction

The Faculty of Arts offers admission to MPhil, PhD and joint PhD programmes. Full-time and part-time modes are available for MPhil and PhD programmes. The joint PhD programme between the University and King’s College London (KCL) is offered in full-time mode only. Students without a research Master’s degree shall be considered for admission to the MPhil or 4-year PhD programme with the coursework component, while those with a research Master’s degree shall be considered for admission to the 3-year PhD programme without the coursework component, except the Research Ethics course offered by the Graduate School (GS).

B. Period of Study

Students pursuing MPhil or PhD studies are first registered provisionally for the degree and the registration is subject to a probationary period specified below. At the end of the probationary period, students are required to demonstrate capability in research, submit a detailed scheme of research, a Data Management Plan (if applicable) and relevant ethical approval (if applicable), and complete all the GS courses and at least 50% of departmental courses. The candidature shall be confirmed, extended or terminated on the recommendation of the DRPC to the HADC.

For joint PhD students
A joint PhD student is required to spend 50% of the study period at each university. The percentage time could be reduced to a minimum of 40% of the study period at one of the parties but approval must be sought from the Joint Academic Committee. Students needing to revise their plan of study should submit their request to do so, with justification, to the HADC via the DRPC as early as possible so as to allow sufficient time for both institutions’ consideration. Requests submitted retrospectively will not be considered.

Joint PhD students are required to spend the last six months before submission of their thesis at their home university.

C. Completion

Students shall complete their studies within the above-specified period of study. The results of the research must be presented in the form of a thesis, which can be submitted at any time after confirmation of candidature provided that the requirement for the minimum study period is met and that a 3-month prior notice of intent to submit a thesis is given. The thesis will be examined by both internal and external examiners and an oral examination will be held. Other examinations may be prescribed if necessary. The thesis will be assessed on the grounds of: (i) originality, significance and methodology of the research; (ii) accuracy and quality of results; and (iii) clarity and lucidity of presentation and adequacy of references (if applicable). A successful MPhil thesis should represent the result of the student’s independent research demonstrating some originality, a sound understanding of the field of study and application of appropriate research methods. A successful PhD thesis should represent the result of the student’s independent research, offer an original contribution to knowledge and be worthy of publication.

5. Timeline and Procedures from Registration to Thesis Examination

Key dates of candidature are available at

4-year PhD
http://www.gradsch.hku.hk/gradsch/current-students/key-dates-progress-report/key-dates/doctor-of-philosophy-4-year
A. Registration and Course Enrolment

Once the student is admitted, the HADC will appoint a supervisor and a co-supervisor/mentor for the student.

The student is required to complete registration procedures in person at the Faculty Office within 7 working days of the date of registration.

MPhil and PhD students are required to complete the taught research component. It is advisable to consult your supervisor/DRPC Chairperson prior to course enrolment. (3-year PhD students are required to take GS Research Ethics course.) If students have not followed departmental coursework requirements, supervisors/DRPC Chairpersons may disapprove the course enrolment and request the students to revise their course choices in the add/drop period. Course enrolment takes place via the Student Information System (SIS) and a user guide is available here.

B. Confirmation of Candidature

One month before the expiry of the probationary period, the supervisor and the student shall be required to submit to the DRPC a “Supervision Report” and a “Candidate’s Progress Report”, respectively. The latter must include a detailed scheme of research and ethical approval, if applicable. Faculty’s guidelines on the scheme of research are available here.

By the end of the probationary period, the student shall be required to have satisfactorily completed all GS courses and at least 50% of departmental coursework. In addition, a student has to submit a Data Management Plan (DMP) if data is to be collected or generated as part of the research. Details of submission of DMP are available on the website of the University Libraries.

The DRPC shall consider the reports and the DMP, where applicable, together with the student’s coursework results, and shall submit the reports and a recommendation on the confirmation or termination of the candidature, or an extension of the probationary period, to the HADC for a decision.

Individual departments may have additional requirements for confirmation of candidature.

C. Transfer of Candidature

MPhil students, who have obtained a Bachelor’s degree at first class honours or equivalent, may apply for transfer to the PhD programme after confirmation of candidature and after completion of all coursework requirements.

An application in writing, together with a revised scheme of research and evidence of written work (e.g. one or two thesis chapters and/or a draft of a conference paper) shall be submitted to the Chairperson of the DRPC at least 6 months before the expiry of the MPhil candidature.

The student is required to conduct an oral presentation in relation to the revised scheme of research before the DRPC, or an advisory panel set up by the DRPC that considers the application, at least 5 months before the expiry of the MPhil candidature.
The DRPC shall submit its recommendation together with the application to the HADC. Such transfer, if approved, shall be effected at least 3 months before the expiry of the MPhil candidature.

The criteria involved in the transfer decision include:
- the student has demonstrated that they are capable of work at an appropriate level for a PhD award;
- the scale, depth and conception of the research provide a realistic base for a PhD thesis submission;
- the student has acquired the necessary training in order to complete his/her proposed research; and
- the student has demonstrated adequate knowledge of background material.

PhD students may apply for transfer to the MPhil programme within the first 12 months (3-year PhD) or 18 months (4-year PhD) of candidature, in the case of full-time students; or within the first 18 months (3-year PhD) or 27 months (4-year PhD), in the case of part-time students.

At any stage of his/her studies, the student may be permitted to transfer from full-time to part-time candidature (or vice versa) for the same degree, provided that the requisite coursework requirements can be completed before submission of the thesis. An application in writing with the supervisor’s endorsement shall be submitted to the HADC via the DRPC.

D. Progress Report

Both students and their supervisors are required to submit bi-annual progress reports on the students’ work via the online reporting system. One month before the end of the probationary period, students and their supervisors should submit reports to the HADC via the DRPC, for confirmation of candidature, transfer of candidature, termination of candidature or an extension of the probationary period.

The GS will send automatic email reminders to students and their supervisors one month before the report due date. Details are available here.

E. Achievement Card

At two or three points of the students’ candidacy, depending on their curriculum, supervisors and students are required by the Graduate School to complete “Achievement Card” (AC). This is to align students’ progress with the University Educational Aims (EAs) and Institutional Learning Outcomes (ILOs). Supervisors and their students are encouraged to discuss the EAs and ILOs at the beginning of the study period. The AC, which is formative in nature and not a form of assessment, will help to document to what extent the students have achieved the EAs and ILOs over the course of their study period. It is important to note that achievement of all the education aims as indicated by the student and his/her supervisor does not warrant passing of the thesis examination. Details are available here.

F. Thesis Submission

The student, with confirmed candidature and completion of all coursework requirements, shall submit a thesis on or before the expiry of the candidature. At least 3 months before the intended thesis submission, the student shall complete and submit to the HADC via the DRPC a “Notice of Intent to Submit a Thesis” form with the supervisor’s proposed appointment of the Thesis Examining Committee.

Before submission, the student should pass a copy of the thesis to the supervisor(s) in sufficient time for them to read and comment on. The thesis should be free of grammatical/typographical errors and consistently follow one of the well-established referencing styles. The student cannot expect from the supervisor(s) detailed correction of his/her writing. If necessary, help from professional editing service should be sought.

The student is required to conduct a self-check on the originality of the thesis via the “Turnitin” system and amend it, if necessary, in consultation with the supervisor(s). Supervisor(s) are required to complete and sign the “Thesis Submission Form by Supervisor of MPhil/PhD Thesis” for confirming that the thesis is ready for submission for examination, and/or, only under special circumstances, for disassociation from the content of the thesis.

The student shall submit the followings to the Faculty Office in order to initiate the examination process:

- four (MPhil student)/ five (PhD student) temporarily bound copies of the thesis (preferably in heat-sealed, perfect binding);
- a soft copy of the thesis in PDF format;
- a signed additional, unbound copy of the thesis abstract of 200–500 words, with a word count of the abstract;
- a dataset of his/her research, where applicable, and a print-out of the ‘proof of completion’ at the Data Management Plan Entry Page via the HKUL Research Data Services website;
- a “Thesis Submission Form by Supervisor of MPhil/PhD Thesis” signed by the supervisor. Where applicable, each co-supervisor should complete the form individually.

Free editing of theses abstracts is available. Students interested in the service should send a soft copy of the abstract as an email attachment in MS Word to Ms. Vicki Geall (vgeall@hku.hk), Technical Writer of Research Services. Please include in the covering email full name, name of Faculty and Department, and type of degree (MPhil, PhD or Joint PhD). Details are available here.

Students are strongly advised to refer to the section “Preparation, Submission and Examination of Theses” in the GS Handbook and the booklet “Preparing and Submitting Your Theses”. A list of the relevant regulations, forms and reference materials is also available at the GS website at http://www.gradsch.hku.hk/gradsch/current-students/thesis-submission and https://www.gradsch.hku.hk/gradsch/downloadable-forms/current-students#3.

G. Thesis Examination

The thesis must represent the student’s own work. The student shall not submit work that has been previously included in a thesis, dissertation or report submitted to this or any other institution for a degree, diploma, or other qualifications. Original work of the student related to the thesis may be published prior to submission of the thesis and may be included in the thesis.

Each student shall be examined by two examiners for the MPhil degree or three examiners for the PhD degree. Should the student be a member of staff at the Faculty/University, one internal and two external examiners will be appointed. An oral examination shall be required for all students.

A Thesis Examining Committee (TEC) will be established to conduct thesis examination and subsequently to consider the opinions of the examiners and determine the examination result for recommendation to the Faculty’s Board of Examiners for Research Postgraduate Curricula (BoE). A TEC shall consist of a chairperson, the examiners and the primary supervisor and/or co-supervisor. All examiners are voting members while the chairperson and the primary supervisor/co-supervisor are ex-officio non-voting members.

The examiners for joint PhD students shall be approved by the Joint Academic Committee, with one examiner each from HKU and KCL, and the third from other universities. None of the examiners from HKU and KCL shall be the student’s joint supervisors.

Examiners are given six weeks from the date of receipt of the thesis to complete and return the examiner’s reports to the Faculty Office.

Oral examination will be normally held within one month of the receipt of all the examiner’s reports. The student will be given at least one week’s notice of the date of the oral examination.

At the oral examination, before the TEC addresses questions to the student, it is acceptable for the student to give a short presentation of approximately five minutes.

After the oral examination, the TEC shall make a recommendation on the examination result. The student will be informed of the result when it has been approved by the Faculty’s BoE and the GS.

Should the thesis be deemed in need of corrections and revision, the student shall be informed of such as soon as possible after the oral examination. The period for completing all the revisions is up to twelve months from the date the student has received the approved examination result. The revisions must be carried out to the satisfaction of the person appointed to oversee the corrections (normally the primary supervisor).

If the student is required to revise and re-submit the thesis for a new examination, the re-submitted thesis will be examined by the original examiners who shall advise whether a new oral examination is required. The revision period shall be no more than twelve months. No student shall be permitted more than two submissions of the thesis or more than two oral examinations.

After satisfactory completion of the revision, the student is required to submit the followings within one month of the end date of the revision period to fulfil all degree requirements:

- three to four hard copies of the finalized bound thesis (printed on BOTH sides of the paper);
- an e-thesis submitted online via the “Thesis Submission E-Form: MPhil & PhD”;
- a signed “MPhil and PhD Thesis Submission Form for Libraries”;
- a MPhil/PhD Studies Questionnaire; and
- a non-HKU contact form.

Details of the prescribed format and the aforementioned forms are available here.
H. Extension of Candidature

The student may, after confirmation of candidature, apply for an extension beyond the specified period of study. Detailed justifications for the extension with supporting evidence, a study plan for the requested period of extension, and recommendation of the supervisor(s) shall be submitted by completing an application form. All such applications for extension must be made to the DRPC no later than three months before the period of study is due to expire. The HADC shall then forward the recommendation of the DRPC, in light of the comments from the supervisor(s), to the GS. Any extension beyond the specified period of study will be granted only upon the demonstration of sound justification accepted by the GS. Students are reminded that the extension of candidature is not an entitlement but an arrangement to be granted exceptionally by the GS in extenuating circumstances, e.g. illness and family problems.

6. Coursework Requirements

In addition to the traditional one-to-one mode of supervision, the incorporation of coursework into the MPhil and 4-year PhD programmes serves to provide a form of structural supervision. The GS courses aim to provide students from all faculties general knowledge on thesis writing and research skills and methods. Departmental courses offer discipline-specific training. Students are required to take four compulsory GS courses and up to four departmental courses as follows.

A. Graduate School Coursework Requirements

Four compulsory courses (Only those courses applicable to Arts students are listed here.)

7. Supervision

The DRPC recommends the appointment of a primary supervisor and a co-supervisor/mentor upon admission. The supervisors and the DRPC will offer support to students throughout the candidature. The dialogue that evolves in the regular supervision meetings between supervisors and students is one of the most important parts of the research postgraduate training process.

The GS has devised a detailed set of Good Practices for Supervisors and Research Postgraduate Students respectively. They should be used by supervisors and students on a regular basis as a reminder of their respective responsibilities in the supervisory relationship.
It is recommended that students and supervisors keep a summary of each supervisory meeting. This will help avoid any possible misunderstandings and set the agenda for a next meeting. The record will also be useful for completing bi-annual supervision/progress reports. The summary may include the following items:

- Date of meeting;
- List of materials submitted to the supervisor since last supervision meeting;
- Work undertaken since last supervision meeting;
- The main issues or topics discussed in the meeting;
- Summary of action points with suggested timetable for completion; and
- Possible date of the next meeting.

A blank “Supervision Log” can be downloaded here.

8. Seminars and Conferences

Seminars and conferences are another important component in research training. The Faculty encourages all research postgraduate students to present papers at departmental research seminars, local and international conferences. For funding opportunities, please see page 26.

The Faculty has a comprehensive visitor programme. Many visiting scholars from overseas and the Mainland deliver guest lectures and seminars, take part in collaborative projects, and are happy to meet with staff and students for individual consultations. Research students are encouraged to make the most of these opportunities.

9. Plagiarism

Plagiarism is a serious academic misconduct. The Faculty upholds the principle that plagiarism in any form is unacceptable and any student found plagiarizing is liable to disciplinary action in addition to failing the examination concerned. Regulation 6 of the Regulations Governing Students’ Academic Conduct Concerning Assessment stipulates that

“A candidate shall not engage in plagiarism nor employ nor seek to employ any other unfair means at an examination or in any other form of assessment. Plagiarism is defined as direct copying of textual material or wilful use of other people’s data and ideas, and presenting them as one’s own without acknowledgement, whether or not such materials, data and ideas have been published.”

As a general rule, all researchers (staff and students) are duty-bound to acknowledge the source of ideas or data used in their research. Students should take the greatest care in acknowledging the work of others, whether it be through the use of marks to designate quotations or through proper acknowledgement of sources. Three booklets available from the GS can help you with this problem. “Preparing and Submitting Your Theses” provides general advice and deals with the related area of copyright. The University’s website on plagiarism and “Plagiarism: A Guide for Research Postgraduate Students” (HKU Portal login required) offer further advice and simple exercises on how to acknowledge and present the ideas of others in one’s own writing.
The student who is alleged to have infringed Regulation 6 of the Regulations Governing Students’ Academic Conduct Concerning Assessment in any form is liable to be the subject of a complaint before the Disciplinary Committee under “an offence in connection with degree, diploma, or certificate examinations, including violation of any of the regulations of the Senate governing conduct at examinations or otherwise”. For the student who is found to be guilty of an alleged offence under the said Regulations by the Disciplinary Committee, the consequences are severe. The range of penalties which may be imposed by the Disciplinary Committee include:

- a formal reprimand;
- a fine;
- withdrawal of any academic or other University privileges or rights;
- suspension; or
- expulsion from the University.

The student may also be subject to such other actions as may be considered appropriate by the examiners under the relevant examination regulations. Full details of what constitutes disciplinary action and the possible consequences of such action can be found in statute XXXI of the Statutes of the University, which is available in the University’s Calendar.

10. Research Ethics and Ethical Clearance

All members of the University, including research postgraduate students, are under an obligation to observe the highest standards of professional conduct. Failure to do so, not only defeats the object of scholarly enquiry, but also brings both the researcher and the University into disrepute. The need for researchers to comply with strict ethical guidelines is especially important where the pressure to complete theses promptly or produce other publications, e.g. journal articles, may generate a temptation to neglect or relax normal practices.

The nature and scope of one’s ethical duty as a researcher rests on two fundamental assumptions that ought to be self-evident. The first is that of honesty in the conduct of research, the reporting of findings, and the proper attribution of ideas and their source. The second is that positions of seniority or responsibility should never be abused so as to put pressure on research postgraduate students to forego their right to proper acknowledgement of their contribution to the research or publication in question. The Policy on Research Integrity approved by the Council clearly lays down the fundamental principles of what constitutes responsible behaviour and expected standards in research.

Research postgraduate students should apply to the Human Research Ethics Committee (HREC) for ethical clearance for research involving human participants. It is the responsibility of the student to make sure that such ethical approval has been obtained prior to any data collection/analysis taking place. Supervisors are also responsible for ensuring that their students have obtained such ethical approval before starting data collection. Failure to obtain necessary ethical approval may require recollection of data and possible disciplinary action. For details, please refer to the website of the Research Services.

Research postgraduate students will be required to submit a hard copy of the documentary evidence (official letter downloaded from the online Human Research Ethics Application System) to show that relevant ethical approval, if applicable, has been obtained for research work on their theses when they submit their detailed scheme of research and the progress report, for purposes of confirmation of candidatures.

Students enrolled in the joint PhD Programmes have to observe the requirements on ethical approval of both the home and partner universities. Please click here for more information and consult your supervisors at home and partner universities if you have questions about the approval procedures.

11. Postgraduate Scholarship and Part-time Employment

The purpose of Postgraduate Scholarships (PGS) is to provide selected students who have attained good academic qualifications as determined by the GS with financial assistance to study full-time for the degree of MPhil or PhD.

The basic level of scholarship is HK$18,030 per month (w.e.f. September 1, 2020). The PGS holder whose PhD probation has been confirmed will receive a higher PGS rate ($18,520) with effect from the following calendar month after his/her probation is fully confirmed. Scholarships are tenable on an annual basis and are renewable upon satisfactory academic progress having been made and the availability of funding.

In accordance with the Regulations Governing Postgraduate Scholarships, each academic year, the PGS holder may be required to undertake, under supervision, educationally or academically beneficial services. The amount of such work shall not exceed 100 hours in a 12-month period, and it will be arranged by the Head of the student’s home School, Centre or Department.

The services, which are intended to constitute part of the student’s training will normally include: a) assistance with research; b) assistance with tutorials; c) assistance with preparation of materials for scheduled classes; d) assistance with coursework marking; and e) assistance with invigilation of University degree examinations.

If academic progress is unsatisfactory or the holder does not perform the training to the satisfaction of the department, a written warning will be issued by the DRPC indicating the need for improvement within a specified period. If progress/performance continues to be unsatisfactory, the whole PGS will be suspended for initially up to two months or a deduction of $4,000 per month from the PGS value will be imposed for a specified period of no more than two months.

PGS holders should refer to the Regulations Governing Postgraduate Scholarships (HKU Portal login required) for more details. The regulations are also applicable to the Hong Kong PhD Fellowship holders.

Any work required by the supervisor/Department/Faculty above the maximum 100 hours per annum of services or scope expected from the PGS holder shall be treated as part-time employment between the party concerned and the PGS holder in accordance with the University’s human resources policy and practices, subject to the approval of the HADC.

Part-time employment (regardless of whether it is undertaken within or outside the University) within the cap of 150 extra hours per annum shall be approved by the HADC. The HADC, in approving PGS holders’ part-time employment, will ensure that it does not exceed the cap of 150 extra hours per annum and is in compliance with the relevant immigration policies/guidelines where appropriate.

In order to seek approval for a part-time employment, research postgraduate students or their supervisors are required to submit an application in writing to the HADC via the DRPC including the following details: a) title of post; b) name of employer; c) period of employment; d) total number of working hours; e) remuneration; f) benefits to the students from taking up the employment; and g) if the employment is outside the University, a written confirmation from the prospective employer on the proposed terms of employment.

Research postgraduate students without PGS are also reminded that according to Regulation MPH4(b)(ii) and PHD4(b)(ii) of the Regulations for the Degree of MPhil/PhD, a student may register as a full-time candidate when he or she holds part-time employment (whether inside or outside the University), provided that the employment entails not more than 150 hours of work per annum. Students are required to apply to the GS via the HADC for approval for taking up a part-time employment of more than 150 hours per annum, following the procedures mentioned above.

Students who are experiencing any difficulties, or who are dissatisfied with any aspect of the programme, including supervision, should contact their department at the earliest opportunity. Students may choose to speak directly to either their primary supervisor or co-supervisor/mentor, the Postgraduate Co-ordinator or the DRPC Chairperson.

If the issue cannot be resolved informally at local level, students can proceed to the formal complaint procedure. Procedures for the Resolution of the Grievances of Students are available here.

B. Electronic Communication

The University will disseminate important information and notices to students on the HKU Portal and communicate with students using the @connect.hku.hk account. The GS will send automatic reminders to students regarding key events during their candidature, including the submission of bi-annual progress monitoring reports and the probationary report, submission of the notice of intent to submit thesis and the expiry of candidature. The Faculty will contact students via email in matters relating to their candidature, and will send e-circulars, notices and announcements. Students are therefore reminded of the responsibility to regularly visit HKU Portal and check their emails in the @connect.hku.hk accounts.

C. Leave of Absence

The student who wishes to be absent from Hong Kong and/or the approved course of study or research shall be required to submit a written application for leave of absence. Study leave may be granted for the purposes of study or research outside Hong Kong and non-study leave may be granted when the student is best advised for personal, health, or other reasons to have time completely away from his/her academic responsibilities. Any period of study leave granted shall be counted towards the period of study and any period of non-study leave granted shall result in the extension of the period of study by the period of absence.

Leave provisions as follow:

Vacation Leave (For full-time students only)
Up to 14 days (excluding Saturday afternoons, Sundays and public holidays) in each 12-month period during the normative study period (Note 1)

3. Students enrolled in joint PhD programmes are expected to spend half of their study period at the partner institution, and are allowed to take study leave of up to half of their period of study.

4. A blanket approval has been granted by the GS to allow students of joint programmes to take study leave exceeding half of their study period, provided that the relevant committees overseeing the joint programme have approved the individual student’s study plan in accordance with the requirement that they can spend a maximum of 60% of their study period at the partner institution, where applicable.

5. Students must discuss with their supervisor and obtain his/her endorsement for any application for leave of absence well before commencement of the leave period, and should report on study progress regularly, at least on a monthly basis, to the supervisors concerned if the period of leave is more than one month.
